- Colonel Ernesto E. Taquini, Argentine Army. March 1956 to July 1957.

IV..SOLDIER'S MEDAL. By direction of the President, under the provisions of the Act of Congress, approved 2 July 1926, a Soldier's Medal for heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy on the dates indicated is awarded to the following-named enlisted men:

- Sergeant First Class Allen B. Greene, , Infantry, United States Army, 1st Battle Group, 39th Infantry Regiment, 9th Infantry Division, distinguished himself by heroism while serving as Safety Non-Commissioned Officer on Grenade Range No. 38, Fort Carson, Colorado, on 23 April 1958. While engaged in instructions involving practice with live fragmentation grenades, a basic trainee threw an activated grenade which struck the top log of the protective barricade from which it was thrown. When the grenade bounced off the log, rolled back inside the barricade and came to rest approximately 4 feet from the top of the pit with its fuse burning, the trainee became panic-stricken and began to run, making himself a target for the deadly shrapnel and flying debris resulting from the detonation of this type of weapon. Working with only seconds to spare, Sergeant Greene, without hesitation and with complete disregard for his own personal safety, overtook the frightened trainee, tackled him, threw him to the ground and shielded him with his own body. Sergeant Greene's quick judgment, presence of mind, and unselfish and courageous actions in risking his life in this dangerous situation prevented serious injury or death to a fellow soldier, reflecting the utmost credit upon himself and the military service.

Sergeant Roy Millar, _____, Military Police Corps, United States Army, 19th Military Police Company, Fort Carson, Colorado, distinguished himself by heroism on 17 May 1958, in the vicinity of Colorado Springs, Colorado. Sergeant Millar answered an emergency call from the office of the El Paso County Sheriff requesting assistance in the rescue of a young girl stranded on the bare face of a cliff some 7 miles away, and immediately enlisted help and proceeded to the bottom of the cliff. After being briefed by a local forest ranger on the best possible approach, a route was chosen and the long arduous climb begun. Although seriously hindered by rock slides, pinon shrub, and rarified atmosphere, Sergeant Millar and his companion persevered, and after approximately 90 minutes of strenuous and hazardous climbing, reached a point 200 feet above the girl who was desperately clinging to a pinon pine. Realizing that there were only seconds to spare, Sergeant Millar immediately anchored a rope to prepare for his descent, while his companion attempted to reassure the hysterical girl. When the victim stated that she could hold on no longer, Sergeant Millar rapidly secured himself to the rope and sped down the face of the cliff. Upon reaching the girl, he discovered that she had lost her grasp with one hand and was clinging to the shrub with the other. Completely aware that any further delay would cost the girl's life, and being hampered by her panic and resistance, Sergeant Millar managed to restrain her until her energy was completely spent. Sergeant Millar then tied her to a rope, and began the ascent to safety. Several times during the attempt to reach safety he was forced to retreat to an outcropping of rock to avoid being crushed by the slides, and in the ascent was grazed on the shoulder and head by a large boulder. Sergeant Millar's heroic efforts and unselfish regard for his own personal safety prevented the girl from falling to her death some 3,000 feet below. The clear thinking, courage, and rapid action displayed by Sergeant Millar in risking his life in this extremely dangerous situation reflect distinct credit upon himself and the military service.
